How many "air miles" have you flown?

Flightscore.com is an intuitive website offering additional services that go further than just reviewing current flights in close to real time. After registering and submitting a review, flightscore will easily track your air miles flown and display them in a wonderful graphic image for you to view at a glance. Not limited to just air miles flown, flightscore will track cleanliness, seat comfort, food quality and including guest experience. Adds Rob from Flightscore.com :

"All reviews are getting calculated to produce Top List for the different Flight Classes. we also track the flights from users to provide them Flight Statistics for their most flown Airlines, the miles they have flown, etc.... all is displayed on a nice Flash Map". From submitted Flight Reviews, we build Airline Quality Top Lists for you to compare Airlines with prior to your next Flight. FlightScore.com automatically keeps track of where you have flown to and then easily makes maps showing your flight routes.

We are pleased to recommend flightscore.com says Dean Floreani. Simply put, the fact that at a glance, you can have instant access to a "real people's opinion" about their experience with a modern day airline makes this resource a valuable travel tool for many going forward.

Visit their website and get tracking your statistics today! Just look for the flightscore.com banner near the bottom of the www.timesharingstyle.com home page.
